INTRODUCTION

The Rengao are a people whose traditional home is Kontum Province in the central highlands of South Vietnam. They number more than 10,000 and speak a Mon-Khmer (Cambodian-like) language. Three main dialects may be identified: 1) Central Rengao, the principal dialect, spoken by villages to the west and north of Kontum City. 2) Southeastern Rengao ('Bahnar-Rengao'), spoken to the east of and very near Kontum City along Route 5. 3) Northern Rengao ('Sedang-Rengao'), originally spoken to the north of Kontum City east of Route 14 in villages bordering the Sedang.
